Call to Confession

1 Corinthians 3:16-17

Confession of Sin

Our Father, we do not give enough attention to the fact that we are your temple—not just we individually, but we as a community. We are your temple. And so we defile your temple with our selfish agendas. And we neglect your temple by our neglect of one another. Thank you for Jesus who was the perfect temple, being God in the flesh, who came to be defiled by the hands of sinful men at the cross. Thank you that Jesus rose to become the cornerstone of a new temple, indwelt by your Spirit. Generate in us a desire for the purity fitting for your temple. And generate in us a love for your people, building stones in your house. Help us, Father, to love your church. Knit us together as one body, having a common concern for one another's well-being. Forgive us for so often getting caught up in the agenda of the world, an agenda that values worldly gain, riches, and reputation. Capture our hearts with the love of Him who gave up all, that we might have everything. Help us to rejoice in the one who became poor that we might become rich, and who received shame that we might be declared righteous in your sight. Motivate us by His love and mold us into His image, that your church might be characterized by purity and love, by the power of Your indwelling Spirit. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.
